

Golfing greens up in the hills

Club offers a challenging game on a picturesque course

GOLFERS looking for a new challenge this weekend can check out the Berjaya Hills Golf & Country club, which has a challenging and picturesque course nestled in the lush greenery of Pahang.

Located just 45 minutes from Kuala Lumpur, the club is an ideal retreat amidst cool mountain air at 2,500 feet above sea level.

This is probably the best time to visit the Berjaya Hills, as the club has just launched its seasonal golf package. A flight of four only has to pay for three golfers, and this works out to about RM70 for green fees, buggy and insurance.

Newly appointed general manager SA Nathan believes the seasonal promotion is one of the better golf packages available.

"Berjaya Hills is less than an hour away from Kuala Lumpur. Our promotion is probably the best value-for-money deal you could find in the Klang Valley," he said.

Nathan added that the management was spending to upgrade the golf course in time for the Pahang Men & Ladies Amateur Open Golf Championship 2009 which would be held from July 24-26.

"The tournament was inaugurated in 1982 and Berjaya Hills is hosting the event for the 8th consecutive year," he said.

The scenic and memorable 18-hole Berjaya Hills International Golf Course was designed by J. Micheal Poellot and has hosted a number of prestigious tournaments including the World Inter-Team Amateur Open, the Hospitality Asia Golf Championship and the Pahang Men & Ladies Amateur Open Golf Championships.

The Par 72 course which plays to a distance of 6312 meters will provide an outstanding test of golf for players of all ability levels.
