Here's to a Better You!

Dear Member,

Each of us is a sum of the learning, choices and actions that we have taken ownership of in life. Here in Berjaya Clubs, we're always looking out for you, to make your life more meaningful, enjoyable and complete.

In this issue, we open up with an article on how we can better our lives by doing what we need to for our success. In other words, how we can make tomorrow fantastic by making meaningful sacrifices today, taking a page from Jack Ma's advice.

Speaking of "tomorrow," check out our article on futuristic shared transportation services. Wouldn't it be great if we could combine our efforts to usher our children in to a congestion-free world of transportation? Imagine the reduction in pollution and the savings in time.

In the same vein of self-betterment for our children, we know that besides just giving advice, we can influence them greatly by sharing life together. In this case, we bring you five movies that you can enjoy together with them, while imparting good life values at the same time.

Finally, have a read about the best sports for you, if you have an outgoing personality, and learn about Sabah's special dishes that are well-known to locals.

And as always, you'll find within, all the news, highlights and upcoming events at our clubs for your enjoyment and self-betterment as a family.

Have a great read, and we'll see you down at the club!

Yours faithfully,

Khor Poh Waa

How to Better Your Life by

Sacrificing Now for the Future

A self-made billionaire and a stunning success story, Jack Ma believes that the only way to fail is to give up. The founder of the Chinese e-commerce group Alibaba, Jack Ma is an example for anyone to emulate, so let's take a look at the man and the legend, to see what we can learn from his experience to better our own lives.

As someone who has repeatedly failed at many efforts, including early schooling, Jack Ma is a lesson in perseverance. Coming from humble beginnings with parents who were poor, his own father warned him that his ideas were dangerous and crazy, but he chose his own path and now has advice to inspire anyone else who wants to succeed in life. He offers many inspirational messages, speaking humbly to let other people know that their situations are not hopeless, and anyone can succeed. Even someone from the humblest beginnings can become a highly respected success story, and sometimes you simply have to accept what you have and start working from there.

Early Life and Education

Jack Ma tells of his early years by listing the times he tried to go forward. He says that he failed an important primary school test twice, a middle school test three times, and he failed the college entrance exam twice. Nevertheless, he set his goals high and applied for Harvard multiple times, not caring that his applications were rejected. Even though he received rejections, he refused to allow his failures to define him as a person. He used his own initiative to get ahead, even learning English by attaching himself to tourists and teaching himself.

No person can be defined by the expectations of anyone else, and Jack Ma did not take his rejections to heart, even as a young child. Determined to succeed, he preserved and used his own meagre resources to continue to try. Where his education failed him, he filled in the information and skills he needed to achieve the goals he set for himself. He eventually earned his MBA from Cheung Kong University while starting his own successful business.

What This Means for the Future

According to Jack Ma and other industry giants, artificial intelligence will surpass human intelligence in the next 30 years. Many jobs will disappear, while many others will spring up to take their place. Jack Ma does not see this as a frightening thing, believing that people can and should prepare themselves for the inevitable changes coming up.

His own business, Alibaba, holds a tremendous amount of data, particularly on its many customers and others who interact with them. Jack Ma says that in the future, everyone and everything will be connected. This by itself is valuable information, and people who want to prepare themselves better for future success need to at least be aware of how important data is and how it impacts their lives.

What This Means for Us

When Jack Ma faced rejection and failure, he refused to accept his own limitations and kept trying. After failing the college entrance exam, he applied to the most prestigious college in the world. While it is clear that not everyone can achieve the same level of success he did, the example of Jack Ma and how he has chosen to live his life offers many important lessons for all of us.

Not only is it vital to continue to strive for success after small failures, it is equally as vital that other people are understanding when they see people struggling. Instead of judging our fellow humans on whether they meet certain goals, we need to react with care and compassion. Jack Ma himself says that a little praise went a long way for him, helping him to understand and deal with his failures while still seeing his own potential and worth. A former English teacher besides being a major business figure, Jack Ma implores other teachers to find the worth in every student and encourage the potential each student has. What seems like a small action or word could have a potentially devastating or encouraging effect on each child. It is impossible to predict how small actions will be seen by individuals, or which ones will leave lasting lessons. He himself was encouraged by a teacher who told him his English pronunciation was good.

Anyone who wants to succeed needs to add up all the little things which are positive and make that combination into their own unique foundation for success. Not everyone wants to run a business, but we all have goals we can meet with persistence and patience. As another famous man once said, never, never, never give up – and you will meet your goals, no matter what adversities might stand in your way.

Futuristic Shared Transportation

In the new sharing economy, everyone is allowed and encouraged to share their resources, and they are finding ways to share transportation too. Shared transportation is a new trend where travellers find creative ways to share rides. People are used to ride-sharing with Uber and Grab nowadays, which are providing stiff competition to taxi-style car hiring. At the same time, a new trend is also rising, where people can share the same vehicle at different times, as with car-sharing and bike-sharing.

GoCar is an example of a carsharing rental and is the first popular service of its kind in Malaysia. Anyone wanting to rent a vehicle can use an app or book online and can borrow a car for as little as an hour. Car-sharing not only helps individuals, but it significantly cuts down on the amount of resources needed to make automobiles, because it reduces the need of individuals to own their own vehicles. GoCar has thousands of users across hundreds of locations.

GoCar

Rent By The Hour Or Day

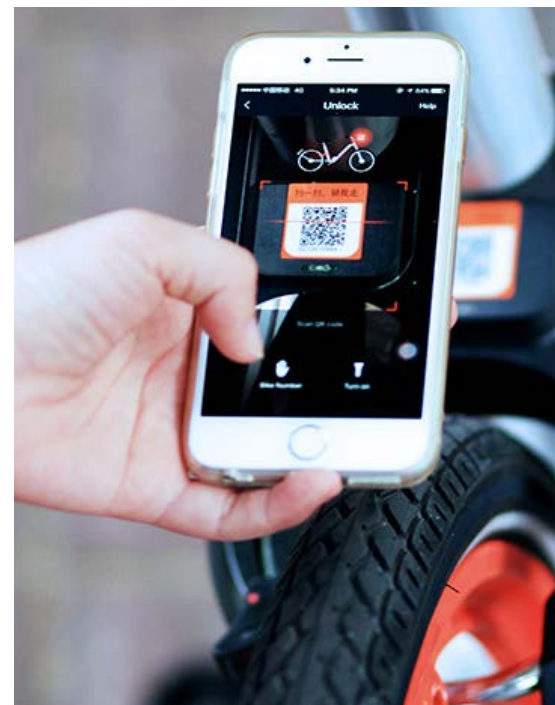

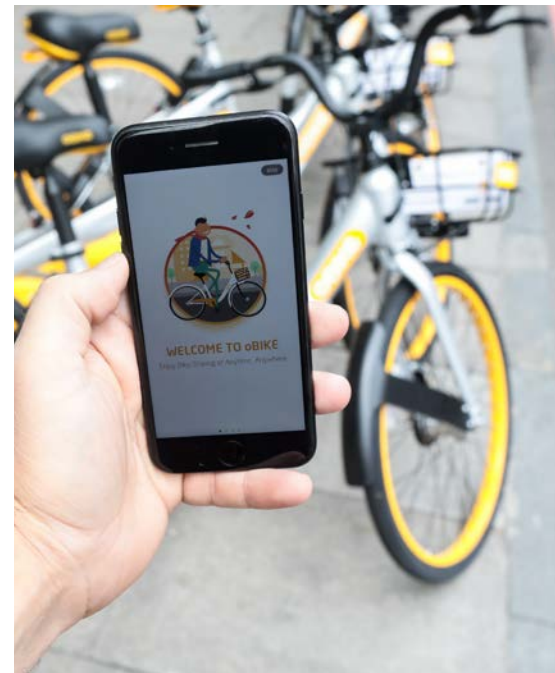

Car2Go

Car2Go is an example of a US ride-sharing club, and members can join for a small price and rent a vehicle by the minute. Cars can be picked up at designated locations on the street. So far, there are only 11 cities covered, with four of them being in Canada. Half of the members of Car2Go don't own their own vehicles. Perhaps a service like this might find its way into our country.

oBike is an example of a bicycle sharing rental. Any riders can use an app to rent a bicycle. They pay a deposit, which is returned to them after use. They can then pick up bicycles in several locations around the city and unlock them using the app, and after they are done they can also use the app to lock the bicycles safely. The stated goals of the company are reducing traffic congestion and reducing environmental pollution.

This new trend is being driven by increasing demands, as resources are scarce, and people are more concerned with environmental issues. In an effort to cut down on greenhouse emissions and slow climate change, efforts are being made to cut down on individual resources used for traveling. Also, sharing rides can significantly cut down traffic congestion as there are fewer vehicles on the road.

HOW IT WORKS

- 1 Passengers can hail the drone using a simple app
- 2 A touch-screen inside the drone lets you choose your destination

TOP SPEED

MAXIMUM WEIGHT OF PASSENGER

Flying taxis?

As more and more cities become environmentally aware, there are newer and better options to be found. Dubai is hoping to have flying taxi drones as early as this summer. They tested a two-seater unmanned flying vehicle in September, hoping to offer rides soon, which can be ordered through an app.

The future of ride-sharing is exciting, and you only need to look around to find ways your own city is offering ride-sharing, car-sharing, bike-sharing and other sharing resources and services. Much more convenient than owning your own vehicle, while you still get the benefit of using one when you need it!

5 Movies That Educate You and Your Child

Whether you are a teacher or a parent, you know that children learn all the time, effortlessly absorbing new information. This is one reason why it is important to take advantage of opportunities to teach children lessons in ways that they can enjoy. Movies are a fun way for adults to share an educational experience with their children while helping instill important knowledge and values. Here are some good must-watch movies that can engage and inspire both you and your children at the same time.

Coco

Miguel is a young boy who wants to be a musician, but his family won't allow him to listen to or play music. He ends up in the Land of the Dead where he learns important lessons about family, loss and tradition. The film lovingly and brilliantly portraying Mexican traditions and customs, especially the holiday Day of the Dead. In the end, most viewers will probably tear up, but they will leave the movie with more appreciation for their own families.

Beauty and the Beast

This timeless classic has been updated with a live action version that features the same attention to detail as the original and even some of the same songs. When Belle is taken prisoner and forced to live in the Beast's castle, she learns look beneath the surface to see someone's true heart and soul.

Inside Out

Riley is an 11-year-old girl who goes through emotional upheaval when her family moves her from the Midwest to a new home in San Francisco. Her emotions are portrayed as characters; Joy, Sadness, Fear, Disgust and Anger influence her actions and eventually help her learn to accept her new situation. Even adults often have trouble dealing with their

Up

Carl always wanted to explore South Africa with his wife, but when she died he withdrew from society and grew old alone. One day he attaches balloons to his house and sets off on his grand adventure with a stowaway, learning that it is never too late to follow your dreams.

Zootopia

The metropolis of Zootopia is a melting pot of animals from every kind of environment. Not only that, any of the animals is free to become anything, no matter how big or small. Officer Judy Hopps is a bunny who will prove herself in the police force. Funny and fast-paced, this film teaches lessons on belonging and following your dreams, no matter what other people think.

In general, movie consumption is on the increase as more and more titles are made for an increasing number of distribution channels such as internet and mobile streaming. Isn't it wonderful that we can spend hours of enjoyment with our children while helping them learn good values for life?

OUTGOING SPORTS

The hardest part of exercising for most people is staying motivated enough to maintain a regular routine. Different sports do appeal to different personality types, and you can find a sport that suits your temperament. How comfortable you feel in a particular activity can help you perform better and work harder. Some sports are obviously best for loners, such as long distance running or cycling.

Generally, introverted people are more quiet and thoughtful, while extroverted people are louder and more excitable. Extroverts will usually prefer sports which are fast paced, team oriented, and even aggressive. They will prefer sports which allow them to either interact with other people a lot or be the centre of attention. Last issue, we looked at sports that appeal to people who like a challenge. In this article, we will look at the kind of sports that appeal to outgoing people and discuss why these kinds of activities are a good fit.

1 TENNIS

You can play slower singles or quick doubles, but either way, you will be burning a lot of calories. Tennis is a game of endurance, where you are constantly interacting with the other player or players. Because you spend a lot of time in a match, you need to be someone who enjoys the camaraderie even when you are working your hardest. Tennis players want to win and are highly competitive. Their optimism and high spirits keep them motivated and give them the stamina to stay tough through the game.

2 BADMINTON

Like tennis players, badminton players need to be competitive and capable of long periods of intense concentration. Similarly, badminton players need to be able to focus on the other players and what they are doing in order to respond and stay in the game. Badminton requires serious players to be able to analyse their plays and react with precise but surprising moves. Players are often astonished at how physically demanding this sport can be, and a game normally lasts for what seems like a very long forty minutes to an hour.

3 BOWLING

Bowlers need long range vision and concentration in order to be competitive. The best way to bowl is on a team, and bowling leagues tend to meet weekly for not just games but social interaction. Shy people may not be comfortable with the amount of time spent just hanging out, but people who really love bowling look forward to long mornings or afternoons and form close friendships with teammates.

If you're an outgoing person, these sports would be a great fit for you, as a fun and sociable way of staying fit and active. For more information on booking a game with your best buddies, please contact the following departments at your club:

Sabah's Hidden Delights

Part of the beautiful island of Borneo, Sabah is one of the thirteen states of Malaysia. Some of its cultural dishes are unknown to most people, but they are must-tries if you want to visit this state.

Murtabak Java

Murtabak Java, or Javanese beef rolls, are a popular street food in Sabah. The word seems to have originated from the Arabic “mutabbaq” (literally, “folded”), which means “pancake” in that language. To make Murtabak, egg roll wrappers or pancakes are filled with seasoned beef and onions and fried until golden. They are usually served with kicap manis, a sweet soy sauce.

Coconut Pudding & Lokan Bakar

Coconut pudding and lokan bakar may be served together for an interesting and delicious meal. Lokan bakar is barbequed clam. When the clams are collected from nearby locations, it is advisable to watch if you are buying the dish from popular local stalls, so that you know that hygiene as well as flavour are a certainty. Clams are sorted by size, and you can choose your clams and then tell the proprietor which ones you would like to be prepared for you. You can also try grilled coconut, a hot dish where the outside of the coconut is burnt, and coconut pudding, a dish which is creamy, rich and served in the coconut shell.

Hinava

Hinava is a traditional native dish from Sabah and was originally made by the native Kadazan-Dusun people. The ingredients for Hinava are fish, lime juice, bird's eye chili, sliced shallots and grated pepper. Bird's eye chili, or cili padi, is a chili native to the area which is extremely spicy but tasty, having a distinctive fruity taste. Hinava is a raw fish dish.

Bosou

Bosou is another traditional dish from the Kadazan-Dusun people. Other tribes from Rinau call it "tinamba." Usually made from freshwater fish, it can also be prepared with anchovies and beef. Other ingredients are hot cooked rice, buah pangi (keluak fruit) and salt. This dish is made by pounding the fruit into a powdery substance and mixing it with salt, then combining it with the fish and hot rice combination. Afterward, the contents are put into an airtight jar and fermented for at least a couple of weeks. This dish is sour and fragrant, and you can enhance these qualities by warming it before eating.

Pinasakan

Pinasakan is popular among many of the ethnic people of Sabah and came out of efforts to preserve fish for later. The fish is prepared with turmeric, lemongrass, cili padi, ginger and salt, and is served with white rice and sambal. It can be kept for five days after preparation and still be safe and delicious to eat.

With so many options to choose from, you'll have a great gastronomic experience in Sabah, the land beneath the wind. Not just a travel adventure, a trip to Sabah is a taste adventure as well.

A Visit to Pu Ai Handicapped Children Association

5 March 2018

On Monday, 5th March 2018, the staff of Bukit Jalil Golf & Country Resort (BJGCR) paid a visit to Pu Ai Handicapped Children Association in conjunction with Chinese New Year. This association is located in Bandar Mahkota Cheras, Selangor, where it was founded by Mr Sky Chuah.

BJGCR contributed a large amount of food supplies such as rice, sugar, cooking oil, detergent and milk powder. It was all about love, care, and quality time with the children living at the association.

This boy is two (2) years old but he's unable to walk on his own. He needs to be held by the caregiver, who is also handicapped but she assists Mr Chuan and his wife.

The man in yellow is a pillar of this home. As you can see, he prepares meals for them. They have a wall full of images of foods they cook in their home.

Chinese New Year Lion Dance Performance

24 Feb 2018

It's a time for celebration and a time to honour each other, especially our loved ones, elders and, not forgetting, our members and guests. On 24 Feb 2018, Bukit Kiara Resort welcomed the Year of the Dog with an Acrobatic Lion Dance performance. Performed in a Chinese lion costume and accompanied by beating drums, gongs and cymbals, the dance is believed to bring luck and good fortune. The lion dance troupe mingled with members and guests and in return, they participated in "feeding" the lions with angpows. Members and guests were thrilled with the free horse carriage rides and were entertained by the dazzling display of the acrobatic lion dance performance. Mandarin oranges were given away to everyone, symbolising prosperity. Gifting these sweet citrus fruit during the New Year is an integral part of Chinese culture.

Gong Xi! Gong Xi! Year of the Dog

4 March 2018

Another year, another fantastic lion dance performance at Kelab Darul Ehsan! The ceremony culminated at the main clubhouse, where all members and guests were given the opportunity to have their photo taken with the lions. Main attractions of this annual tradition were the acrobatic lion dance and a live character dressed up in full regalia as the God of Prosperity.
