New year, new outlook!

Dear Member,

We here at Berjaya Clubs are very excited about this new year. We believe that 2018 is going to turn out to be a great year for all our members. This year, Berjaya Club Times will embark on a journey of self-discovery and self-improvement, because your greatest asset is you!

To start with, this issue features an engaging quiz that you can take to test how well your current job aligns with your life's purpose. The more your job serves your life values, the more satisfaction and happiness you'll experience on a day-to-day basis. So, enjoy yourself with the quiz!

As far as tech trends go, we take a look at the latest thing to hit our computer and phone screens: live shopping. Learn about how live video streaming is transforming the field of online shopping – and get some pointers on how you can get in on the business, if you wish!

Did you know that people are more likely to stick to an exercise programme that suits their personality type? Well, in this issue of Club Times, we showcase some sports that are especially suited to those who like a challenge. And, in our Top 5 section, we highlight five Malaysian athletes who deserve the most admiration, and why. Let them be your inspiration!

In our food and beverage section, we're taking a different angle and looking at dishes that might not be so well-known, but that you definitely must try! Starting with the East Coast, we're looking at some tantalising delights from Kuantan that will surely satisfy adventurous taste buds.

And as always, you'll find plenty of news, highlights and upcoming events at all our clubs, for your benefit and enjoyment as a family. Have a great read, and I'll see you down at the club!

Yours faithfully,

Khor Poh Waa

Better Your Life Quiz:

Align Work & Purpose

Five days per week for more than 40 years, most people spend eight hours or more a day working. If you add up the number of hours you've spent at work, the number is staggering. Now, if one is going to spend a third of one's adult life at work, shouldn't one try as hard as possible to find a career that's fulfilling?

Yet, why do most people, according to surveys, stay in jobs that they're unhappy with? Many are too afraid to take risks – to fail pursuing a career they knew they would love. Others aren't willing to make financial sacrifices. Others make choices that contradict their own values. Finally, many people simply don't know what career they want.

A Forbes magazine article entitled “Why You Should Build a Career That Aligns with Your Life Purpose” reported that people are healthier and happier when they love their career. In the long run, healthier and happier people also make more money – even if they chose a career that was less financially lucrative than their other options. People who have found their life's purpose are passionate about their life. When their career choice matches their life's purpose, they are also more productive at work.

Take the quiz

Does your career align with your life's purpose? The simple yes/no quiz below can help you determine the answer to that question.

1 Do you utilise your best personal characteristics on the job? For example, you might be very creative or very nurturing.

Yes No

2 Is there a significant correlation between your professional and personal activities? For example, you might be a professional teacher who does volunteer tutoring in your personal time or you might be a stockbroker who gives seminars on investment advice at the public library.

3 Is there a significant correlation between your work goals and your personal values? For example, you might be concerned about the plight of poor people in civic life while simultaneously working as a doctor or nurse in an emergency room.

Yes No

4 Do you get as much or more satisfaction from your professional activities and accomplishments as your personal activities and accomplishments?

Yes No

5 Do you care enough about your job that you keep a list of things to do as opposed to just waiting for your boss to tell you what to do?

Yes No

6 Are there several things about your job that give you more satisfaction than receiving your paycheque?

Yes No

7 Are you happy enough about your career choice that you would turn down an opportunity in a career that would pay you significantly more money?

Yes No

.....

Cover Story

8 Are you so passionate about your work that you usually don't check to see how much time is left in your official work day?

Yes No

9 Are you so passionate about your work that you enjoy working overtime occasionally?

Yes No

10 Are you so passionate about your work that you are all right when you must sometimes cancel dates and other personal appointments when something work-related comes up at the last minute?

Yes No

11 When you're off the clock, do ideas about how to do your job better regularly come into your head?

Yes No

12 When ideas do come into your head, do you write them down, so you can implement them?

Yes No

13 Are you willing to risk the scorn of others to continue working in your career such as listening to friends and family call you a "loser" for working in a low-paying career?

Yes No

14 Are you willing to spend years working a second job to survive while you develop the skills needed to succeed in a career that matches your life's purpose?

Yes No

15 Are you willing to spend years learning the craft of your chosen career while making numerous financial sacrifices such as sharing an apartment, going on fewer vacations, etc?

Yes No

Check your score

The more "yes" answers you give, the more likely it is that you have chosen the right career.

12 - 15
"Yeses"

You should probably stay in your career even if people look at you dubiously when you tell them your career.

8 - 11
"Yeses"

You should probably remain in your career even if someone offers you a significant increase in remuneration to switch careers.

4 - 7
"Yeses"

You should probably explore different careers.

0 - 3
"Yeses"

You should probably put on your running shoes and run as fast as you can to another career option.

Our hope for you is to find yourself in a career that allows you to fully express your life's purpose. We wish you all the best!

LIVE

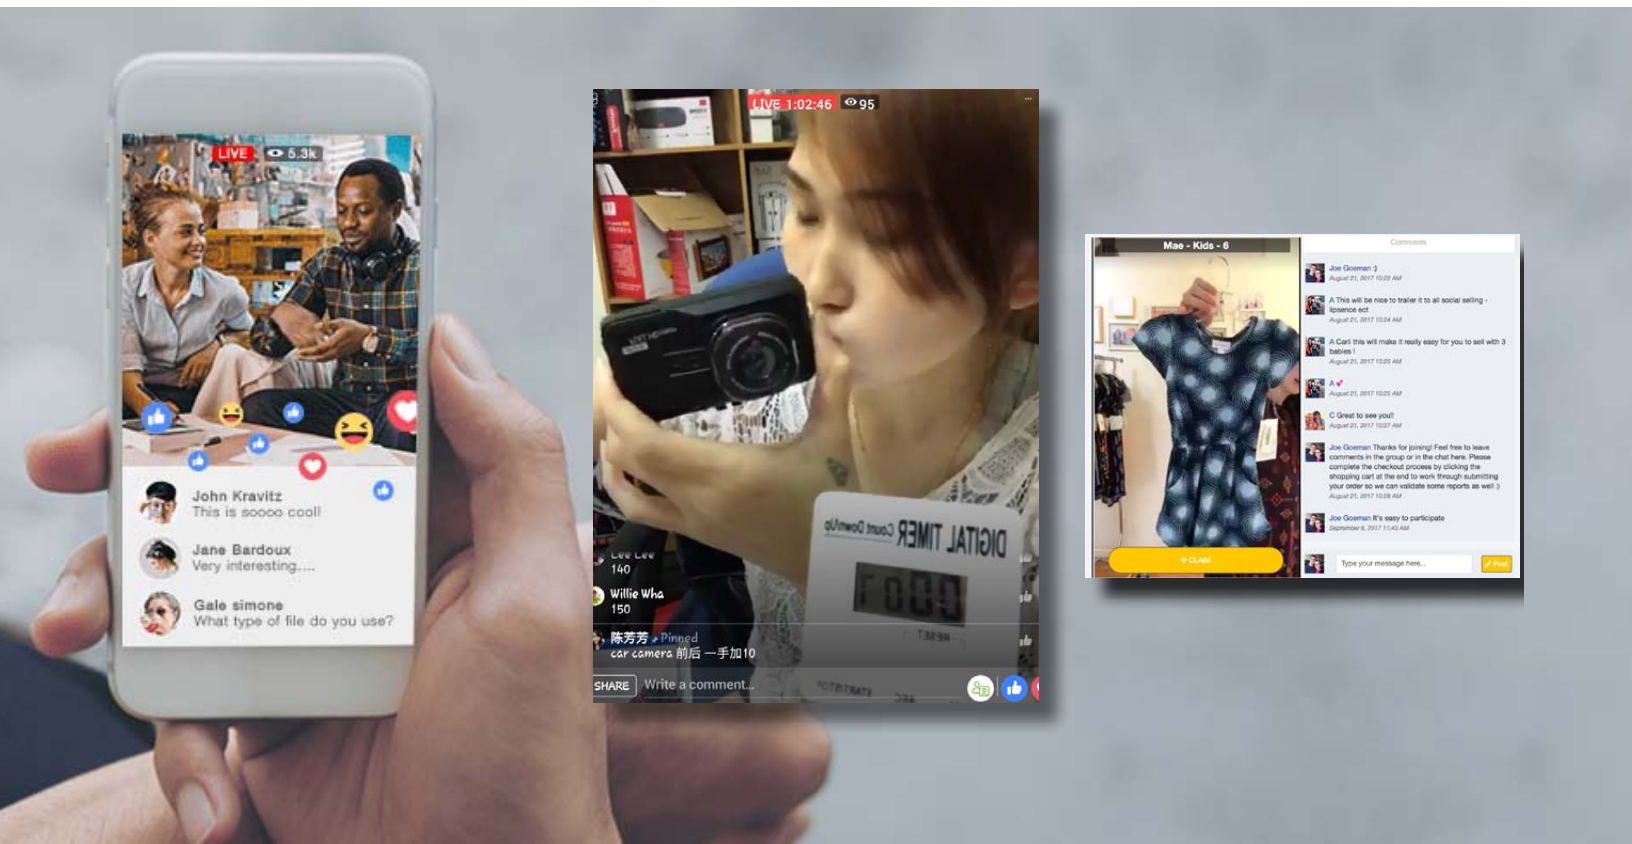

Live Shopping

Online retail has taken one more step into the future, with live shopping features delivered through live stream apps such as Facebook Live. Facebook users can now do much more than make friends jealous with videos of vacations and great meals. While, retailers can now directly sell products in real time through live streams with easy, one-click functionality.

Facebook Live has differentiated itself from competitors Periscope and Snapchat (and even sister offering Instagram Stories), even though Periscope came right behind, with Nissan, Doritos and Coach partnerships. The market will eventually catch up, but as we speak, Facebook Live is currently the easiest to use and has the most scale by far. Why should sellers and buyers use Facebook Live for Live Shopping right now? Let's take a look.

Audience Targeting

Facebook already has one of the most robust audience targeting mechanisms of any social media platform on the market. When you add Live Shopping to the experience, what you get is something truly special. Imagine a buying experience in which you only see brands that are relevant to you. Live Shopping basically only gives you the “commercials” that fit in with your natural viewing experience!

New Products Come Here First

Millennials are moving away from TV, and younger generations (Gen Z) are following suit. Companies with the newest products are following this audience. If you want to stay abreast of the latest in fashion, tech and other industries, Live Shopping is the way to go. By the time these products get to TV or radio, they will already be old!

Quick Buying Experience

With Live Shopping, you never have to leave the stream you are watching to buy the product that you want. The carousel of relevant products scrolls smoothly along the bottom of the stream. All the buyer has to do is check the price and click the “buy” button for the chosen product. The order completes in a matter of seconds, and the buyer returns to an uninterrupted viewing experience (and other products to buy as well).

Engaging, Live Presenters

The new generation of online salesmen are much better at producing live shopping “commercials” than Hollywood old-schoolers. Products are always relevant to the stream and incorporated into the programming in a completely organic way. More than that, the content is entertaining and may even showcase the product in use, so buyers know exactly what the product represents and how it works!

You Can Do It, Too

Another benefit to Live Shopping is that viewers can easily become sellers! All that you need is a stream or a product (or both), and you can get in where you fit in. Just like on mainstream Facebook, Facebook Live allows anyone with something to sell, the ability to do so. Live streaming is the home shopping network of the future. Get on board in the beginning stages, for best results!

MALAYSIA'S MOST ADMIRABLE ATHLETES

There have been many skilled and admired Malaysian athletes throughout the years. They represent many varied sports, and demonstrate excellence in many aspects. While it is difficult to choose the best, these five athletes symbolise the best of the best.

LEE CHONG WEI

One of the marks of a true champion is coming back from defeat. Lee Chong Wei is a national hero, earning many awards that brought attention to him and the country he represents. He went to the 2012 London Olympics and came back with a silver medal. Unfortunately, in 2014, he suffered a temporary ban, but came back strong in the Malaysian Masters Titles and Asian Badminton Championship, securing his place at Number One.

NICOL DAVID

She has earned the honorary title Datuk because she proved herself Number One in squash from 2006 until 2015, bringing great honour to Malaysia. Nicol won 10 Hong Kong Open Titles and 5 Qatar Open Finals, and has participated in 80 Women's International Squash Players Association titles. At 34, she has no intention of slowing down.

MOHD AZIZULHASNI BIN AWANG

Nicknamed the "Pocket Rocketman" due to his small size, Azizulhasni is the first Malaysian professional track cyclist to win a medal at the UCI Track Cycling World Championships and the Olympic Games. In fact, Azizulhasni was the flag bearer for Malaysia at the 2008 Olympics Parade of Nations. He won his first World Championship medal in 2009, a silver medal in the individual sprint. He won his first Olympic medal in 2016, a bronze in the individual keirin. Most recently, in 2017, Azizulhasni won his first World Championship title in the keirin and became the first Malaysian to ever wear the coveted rainbow jersey. A proud achievement, indeed!

SAZALI SAMAD

Following in the footsteps of great Malaysian bodybuilders like pioneer Bujang Taha, Sazali has so far been more successful than any other Asian bodybuilder. With eight Mr Asia titles and eight world titles, including Mr Universe Bantamweight, he truly exemplifies what is best in the sport. He is also a sub-inspector for the police force and a loving family man, with a wife and four children. He most recently won a Mr Universe title at the World Bodybuilding Championship in India in 2014.

PANDELESA RINONG

Another Olympic medallist, Pandelesa won a bronze medal in London in 2012 for the 10-metre diving event. She was the first Malaysian athlete to win an Olympic medal at a sport that wasn't badminton. She continues to achieve honours and awards, including a finish in the World Aquatic Championships which set her up to be the first Malaysian athlete at the Rio Olympics. Her coach thinks she is paving the way for other young divers to achieve great things too.

These Top 5 Most Admired Malaysian Athletes prove that Malaysia has what it takes to win on the world stage. Let's support our local sportsmen and sportswomen!

CHALLENGING SPORTS

Different sports appeal to different people. This has largely to do with one's personality type. While there are many sports which can be played simply for fun and relaxation, for example, there are some sports which are especially favoured by the kind of people who love challenges. These sports force the participants to hone their skills in many areas, excelling in many areas in order to achieve higher levels.

1 ARCHERY

While archery looks easy to the observer, it actually involves a surprising set of skills. And while arm strength might seem the most important, archers lift weights and do cardio to gain necessary core strength.

The first skill, which is the most important, is focus. One millisecond of inattention could cause the archer to not only miss the target, but cause great damage. Archers also need to be surprisingly coordinated, in order to deal with the tiny variations as they line up their shots. When people are developing their skills, they are surprised to find that form is more important than good aim.

2 BOXING

It will come as no surprise to boxing fans that boxers engage in endless hours of hard work just to achieve the minimal fitness in order to compete in the sport. Boxers must be in top physical shape, and possess speed, strength and hand-eye coordination.

Even though it seems like a short amount of time, the three minutes that boxers must stay in the ring during a round require an enormous amount of stamina. Anyone who doubts it can try punching a bag for three minutes to see how difficult it actually is.

While many people won't be able to achieve the amount of stamina necessary to enjoy boxing, the single largest challenge is overcoming fear. When in the ring, the object of your opponent is to hurt his opponent. Every boxer knows that going in, and that getting hurt is a normal part of the sport. Sometimes injuries are serious.

3 KARATE

Karate is a sport where the people who practice can constantly challenge themselves and improve their skills. In fact, most people have noticed the belts that are used in karate which show the level of the practitioner.

As with boxing, karate requires participants to have a high level of fitness in order to practice moves with all parts of the body. Multiple muscle groups are used in different ways in every workout. Users advance through levels by constantly challenging themselves instead of competing with others, while practicing principles of spirituality.

Are you someone who loves challenges? You can participate in these sports by calling for more info:

Kuantan's

Hidden Delights

When someone is lucky enough to visit Kuantan, there are some experiences that must be tried. Among the most important thing is trying the dishes most favoured by locals, which are both unique and delicious.

Ikan Patin Tempoyak

This delectable dish is the region's most popular way to cook freshwater silver catfish. While it has a powerful smell, it is worth it to sample this famous food. Cooked in a slightly watery, yellow gravy, ikan patin masak tempoyak is served with steamed white rice. The ikan patin itself is soft and smooth. Sides include sambal belacan, a spicy hot sauce, and ulam (raw salad).

The strong smell of this tasty dish comes from the tempoyak, which is made from fermented durian, the king of fruits found only in Southeast Asia. Besides adding a distinct flavour, the tempoyak acts as a natural food preservative.

Kuantan Seafood

Seafood is fresh and plentiful in Kuantan and its surrounding areas, being a seaside town. Here, seafood is served in many ethnic styles, including Malay, Chinese and Thai. Diners can find seafood for every meal, including breakfast!

Examples of the varied and amazing dishes include squid fried with salted egg, asam steamed fish, butter prawns, salted egg crabs and grilled fish. Many restaurants have their own specialties, and are welcoming to both families and business travellers. Visitors can try unusual fish species, which are not found in other areas, and fresh favourites.

Asam laksa

In 2011, this fish and tamarind-based noodle soup was listed as the 26th most delicious food in the world, on CNN Go. Asam refers to any ingredient that makes a dish taste sour, including tamarind and gelugur. Asam laksa most often uses kokum, a local tamarind, and its sour taste is thought to help with digestion and other health issues.

The main ingredients of asam laksa include shredded fish, usually a local mackerel called ikan kembung, and different thinly-sliced vegetables including cucumber, onion, lettuce and red chilis. The dish is also flavoured with ginger, mint and pineapple.

There are several kinds of asam laksa, including Perlis laksa, which uses catfish and eel; Kedah laksa, which adds sliced boiled eggs and rice noodles; and Kuala Kangsar laksa, made of homemade wheat flour. Nevertheless, Kuantan asam laksa is the favourite of the locals.

Visitors to the Kuantan area should try all these dishes, which are unique and will give them a once-in-a-lifetime experience. (Unless you come back for more, which you will want to!) You can find recommendations on the internet to start with, but the best thing to do is to ask advice from the locals, on where to find restaurants which have the best dishes.

After washing clean the window panes, helpers reinstalled them

On Saturday, 7th October 2017, all Heads of Departments paid a visit to Rumah Kasih Harmoni charitable home for children. Also present were Mr & Mrs Danny Chong, who contributed RM1,000 to the home, while Bukit Jalil Golf & Country Resort contributed RM2,760. The funds were collected from the recently concluded Malaysia Day Charity Golf 2017 from the Bull's Eye collection, golfers' donations and sale of handphones.

A convoy of 3 vehicles from the company HILUX was loaded with goodies, household products and food products, candies for the children, electrical items, drums of paint and accessories for painting works. The team of volunteers really "got their hands dirty" with the painting work, mopping the floors, and changing more than 30 light fittings and bulbs.

The team led by Club Manager Hisham Razali had indeed put a smile on all the kids' faces. Thank you to all volunteers for making this charitable event a great success!

What We Do

At the Riding for the Disabled Association's (RDA) branch of Bukit Kiara, our horses and ponies help children and young people with physical and mental disabilities from selected schools and centres in horse-assisted therapy sessions. Currently held on Tuesday and Thursday mornings, the sessions are run entirely by volunteers, some of whom are members of the club. The branch is part of RDA Malaysia based at the Royal Selangor Polo Club, Ampang.

On 10th October 2017, RDA Bukit Kiara held its annual gymkhana (family sports day) with a Halloween theme. There were games and fun activities for the children as well as a costume competition. RDA's Royal Patron, YAM Raja Dato' Seri Azureen Sultan Azlan Shah, graced the occasion and gave away prizes to the winners. Each child also received a present.

While the club provided the facilities, horses and ponies, the gymkhana was also supported by its regular sponsors: 7-Eleven (tee shirts), Bukit Kiara Saddle Coffeehouse (lunch) and Pacific Horseland (rosettes for winners). In addition, many others contributed to the presents and goody bags.

RDA Bukit Kiara has been able to provide its voluntary services since December 1994, thanks to financial assistance from various sponsors over the years. The branch takes pride in the exceptional dedication and commitment of its RDA-certified instructors and volunteers. They continue to give their best, motivated by the marvellous progress and enthusiasm of the riders over the years.
